- 4.9.1 For the purpose of the present Section 4.9, the occurrence of the events specified in Section 11 of this Agreement should be considered a serious breach of contract by the Client. In the event of a serious breach of contract by the Customer, the Bank, as assignee with respect to the Receivable, is entitled to turn the silent receivables purchase without recourse relationship into a so-called open receivables purchase relationship by notifying the Buyer. The Client expressly agrees that in the event of a serious breach of contract the Bank shall notify the Buyer by sending a copy of the Receivables Purchase Agreement.
- 4.9.2 In the case of a silent receivables purchase relationship, the Client continues to be entitled and obliged to contact the Buyers and to maintain the relationship and communication with them. - (a) request the Client to pay the due amount and the Client shall pay the fees in accordance with the Bank's request;
 - (b) provide a loan for the payment of the due amounts subject to the same conditions as the financial conditions of the payment of the First Instalment of the Purchase Price of the Receivable made under Section 5, and the Bank shall collect such due amounts by exercising its set off right as soon as possible.
 - (c) the Bank shall settle the amounts due by transferring them from the Supplier's Current Account to the Factoring Settlement Account, if the Client expressly authorizes the Bank to do so by signing the Factor Agreement.
- 5.11 If the Client has an overdue debt to the Bank under any factoring agreement and/or any receivables purchase agreement for any reason, the Bank is entitled to enforce any Collateral specified in any Receivables Purchase Agreement (in line with the provisions of the underlying collateral agreement) and take all steps necessary to assert its rights arising from the Receivable.

- 5.12 The positive balance of the Settlement Account is transferred to the Client's Current Account on each Banking Day following the Bank could fully identify the received amounts at the latest.
- 5.13 If the Client owes multiple debts to the Bank at the same time and the payment made by the Client only partially covered such debts, the Bank may – unless otherwise agreed – use the received amount to settle the debt that has become overdue earlier or that can be considered less secured.

6. ADMINISTRATING AND COLLECTING THE RECEIVABLES

10. FUNDAMENTAL OBLIGATIONS OF THE PARTIES

10.1 Obligations of the Bank

10.1.1 With respect to the assigned Receivables, the Bank:

- (a) keeps a registry of the Invoices, payments, debits and the Receivables;
- (b) if necessary, arrange for the dispatch of the payment notices necessary for the collection of the Receivables;
- (c) continuously examines in the electronic Bank information system if an insolvency or liquidation process is initiated against the Hungary-seated Buyer;
- (d) if it expressly undertakes it in writing or unilaterally decides to do so, the Bank takes the necessary steps to collect the Receivables from the Buyer.

10.1.2 The Bank's obligation does not include the task to examine any reclamations raised in relation to the performance of the Client's obligations towards the Buyer.

10.2 Fundamental obligations of the Client

10.2.1 The Client has to prove the existence, enforceability, legality and validity of the Receivables with documents specified in the present GTC and the Receivables Purchase Agreement.

The Client has to fulfil its obligations towards the Buyer in such way, which may not violate the existence, payment, and enforceability of the Receivable. The Client has to provide the Bank with information on all underlying transactions the Receivables originate from and continuously provide the Bank with all financial and other information related to the Receivables, including information on its own and the Buyer's creditworthiness. - 10.2.4 The Client is obliged to deliver goods or provide services to all Buyers in respect of which a Buyer's Limit has been agreed subject to the same payment terms. Changes to the payment terms require the prior written consent of the Bank. The Client shall – until the Bank notifies it otherwise in writing – assign all of its Receivables against Buyers to the Bank under the title of receivables purchase, in respect of whom a Buyer's Limit has been established in the Receivables Purchase Agreement.
- 10.2.5 The Client acknowledges that its information obligation under this Section 10.2 applies to both domestic- and foreign-based Buyers and that neither the Bank's obligation specified in Section 10.1.1(b) above, nor the non-fulfilment of such obligation in case of domestic-based Buyers release the Client from its liability for damages resulting from its failure to provide information or from the legal consequences of a breach of contract.
- 10.2.6 If the Client uses funds received from the central budget's subsystems or any other organization to which the Bank has a reporting obligation, or a third party provides funds to the Bank for the provision by the Bank of a financial service (refinancing) to a customer, the Bank may disclose the data received from the Client in accordance with the GBC, the CBT, the GTC, and the Receivables Purchase Agreement to the provider of the relevant funds or the refinancing. - 10.2.8 The Client has to continue to cooperate with the Bank and fulfil its obligations under the Receivables Purchase Agreement and the present GTC in the event of termination of the Receivables Purchase Agreement and cancellation of the Supplier Limit and/or Buyer's Limit too until all Receivables assigned to the Bank and all claims of the Bank against the Client under the Receivables Purchase Agreement are paid to the Bank unconditionally and irrevocably.

11. BREACH OF CONTRACT AND ITS LEGAL CONSEQUENCES

- 11.1 The Bank, in its sole discretion is entitled to (i) suspend the fulfilment of any of its obligations under the Receivables Purchase Agreement or the provision of any undertaken services (including that the Bank may reject any application of the Client for the purchase of receivables and/or withdraw its promise made in respect of certain Receivables for the purchase of receivable); (ii) transfer and re-assign to the Client the Receivable purchased by the Bank by unilateral declaration, and (iii) terminate the Receivables Purchase Agreement with immediate effect by a unilateral declaration upon the occurrence of any of the following circumstances:
- (a) any event of default set out in the Bank's Corporate and Local Government Business Terms;
 - (b) enforcement, insolvency, liquidation, winding-up, or involuntary cancellation proceedings are commenced against the Client or the third-party Collateral provider, or any of these has been initiated by a third party;
 - (c) the Client or the third-party Collateral provider takes any action to restrict or impede any enforcement actions under any agreement on the establishment of a Collateral;
 - (d) the Client commits a breach of law or a contractual breach the Bank considers material, either in relation to the commercial-service transaction underlying the Receivable or in relation to the Receivables Purchase Agreement, with retroactive effect to the date thereof;
 - (e) there is an ownership or other controlling relationship between the Client and the Buyer or such a relationship is established during the term of the Receivables Purchase Agreement;

- (f) the Client breaches its contractual obligations set out in a collateral contract or in any other contract the purpose of which is the facilitation, strengthening or acceleration of the collection of the Receivable; or the Client obstructs or restricts the exercise and enforcement of any rights and claims under any of these contracts;
 - (g) the prosecutor issued an indictment against a controlling owner of, a managing director, or other representative of the Client for crimes determined in the Criminal Code of Hungary (especially but not exclusively: crimes against life or property, financial-, or economic crimes and crimes against public trust); or the competent foreign authority prosecuted them for crimes against property or economic crimes which are punishable by Hungarian law;
 - (h) operational disorders occur within the direct sphere of the Client due to legal disputes between persons entitled to represent the Client, or between persons having ownership interest in the Client or due to the fact that it becomes difficult or impossible to contact or communicate with the Client;
 - (i) the auditor expresses a negative or qualifying opinion on the Client's balance sheet report.
- 11.2 In case of occurrence of any of the circumstances set out in Section 11.1 above the Bank requests the Client to stop the activity or situation leading to the breach of contract. If the Bank is of the opinion that the event of default cannot be remedied or that the delay resulting from the notice to the Client would be detrimental to the Bank, the Bank is entitled to apply the legal consequences set out in Section 11.1 without prior notice.
- 11.3 If the Bank terminates any legal relationship with the Client by a unilateral written declaration, all of the Bank's obligations arising from any Receivables Purchase Agreement towards the Client terminate and the Bank, in its sole discretion, becomes entitled to partially or entirely enforce the Collateral, simultaneously with the notification of the Client and the Collateral provider.
- 11.4 If the Bank terminates any legal relationship with the Client by a unilateral written declaration, all of the Client's debts towards the Bank arising from any Receivables Purchase Agreement become due and payable on the day of the receipt of the termination notice by the Client.
- 11.5 If Section 11.1 (ii) applies, the Client shall consider the Receivable returned and reassigned by the Bank as repurchased for the amount corresponding to the First Instalment of the Purchase Price of the Receivable and shall at the same time pay to the Bank any other fees and costs under any Receivables Purchase Agreement signed with the Client. The Bank is entitled to re-charge the amount corresponding to the amount of the First Instalment of the Purchase Price of the Receivable and its claims to the Client under the Receivables Purchase Agreement and the GTC on the Settlement Account, or to set off the Client's share of the total purchase price received from the other Receivables purchased by the Bank under any Receivables Purchase Agreement against the Client's share of the total purchase price payable to the Client for the Receivables, thereby reducing the balance of the Settlement Account. The Bank is entitled to collect its claims due under the Receivables Purchase Agreement by filing a collection order pursuant to Section 14.1, and thus exercising its rights set out in the Authorisation Letter. The Client acknowledges that if the Receivables are re-assigned, it may not claim from the Bank damages or any other payments under any legal title.
- 11.6 If a Buyer does not or not fully accomplish a paying obligation based on an Invoice within 60 (sixty) days counted from its due date, the Buyer's Limit can be renounced by the Bank and the Bank will be no longer obligated to purchase the Invoices issued against that Buyer.
- 11.7 If one or more event of default occurs in relation to a Buyer, the Bank shall be entitled to renounce in writing the respective Buyer's Limit with immediate effect. The Bank does not purchase the Receivables arising from delivery of goods or provision of services realized following receipt of the notification of the Client about the renouncement of the Buyer's Limit. The Bank may reduce or terminate the Buyer's Limit with 15-day (fifteen) written notice in case the Client did not use completely the Buyer's Limit.
- 11.8 The Bank is entitled to suspend the fulfilment of any of its obligations under the Receivables Purchase Agreement or the provision of any services undertaken, or to suspend the Buyer's

Limit in case a bankruptcy procedure has commenced or has been initiated against the Client or a Collateral provider.

12. ENTERING INTO FORCE AND TERMINATION OF THE RECEIVABLES PURCHASE AGREEMENT

12.1 The Receivables Purchase Agreement shall enter into force upon the execution by both Parties. The Receivables Purchase Agreement is made – unless it stipulates otherwise – for an indefinite period of time.

12.2 The Receivables Purchase Agreement terminates

- (a) if both Parties have accomplished their obligations and duties under all Receivables Purchase Agreements made between the Parties, and if the Parties may have no further obligations against each other;
- (b) on the day determined by the Parties, if they have agreed about it in writing;
- (c) if any of the Parties terminates the Receivables Purchase Agreement by a unilateral declaration.

12.3 Each Party is entitled to:

- (a) in case of a Receivables Purchase Agreement concluded for an indefinite period with a 15 (fifteen) day notice;
- (b) in case of a Receivables Purchase Agreement concluded for a definite period with a 90 (ninety) day notice terminate the Receivables Purchase Agreement by a written notice to the other Party. The Client is only entitled to terminate the Receivables Purchase Agreement with an ordinary termination if, at the time of the termination, it has no debts towards the Bank based on the Receivables Purchase Agreement, and the Client gives an order to the Bank regarding the payment of any of its potential receivables against the Bank.

12.4 The Bank is entitled to terminate the Receivables Purchase Agreement by a unilateral written declaration with immediate effect in the cases stated in Section 11.

12.5 Following termination of the Receivables Purchase Agreement no further Receivables may be assigned. The termination of the Receivables Purchase Agreement for any reason does not mean that any of the Bank's claims against the Client would cease to exist, nor that the Bank's right to validate such claims would be terminated.

13. THE BANK'S LIABILITY IN CONNECTION WITH THE RECEIVABLES PURCHASE SERVICES WITHOUT RECOURSE

13.1 During its receivables purchase activities, the bank will always act with the due diligence and care that is expected from it and it will take into account the client's interests to the greatest extent possible under the given circumstances.

13.2 The bank is not responsible for such smaller errors or omissions that occur during the performance of a large number of transactions, even when the generally expected care is displayed. The bank is not responsible for failing to provide the service it undertook if the procedure is hindered by a legal dispute between the client and the third party or the wrongful conduct of a third party alone.

13.3 The limitation or exclusion of the bank's liability in this gtc does not affect the bank's liability for actions or omissions in respect of which liability cannot be limited or excluded validly in a contract.

14. COLLATERAL

14.1 If the Client provides a collection right for the Bank in the Receivables Purchase Agreement, the Client has to hand over the Authorisation Letter for the submission of the collection order confirmed by the account-holding bank in respect of all of its bank accounts held at the time when the contract is concluded. If, during the term of the Receivables Purchase Agreement or until it settles accounts with the Bank based on the Receivables Purchase Agreement, the Client opens a new bank account, it has to hand over the confirmed Authorisation Letter to the Bank; it shall also make the necessary reports to the account-holding banks without delay and also send the report back to the Bank with a clause. If any data defined in the report change, the Client shall sign the new report which includes the modified data and act with regard to it as described above. The Bank is entitled to exercise its right of collection within 8 days from the failure of the Client to comply with the written payment request addressed to the Client. The Client undertakes not to provide collection rights for the benefit of third parties other than the Bank without the consent of the Bank during the term of the Receivables Purchase Agreement.

- 14.2 Until the provision of the Collateral or until the Collateral is supplemented based on the Bank's request, the Bank is entitled to suspend its receivables purchase activities or the fulfilment of its potential payment liabilities towards the Client. All costs relating to the provision, maintenance, handling and enforcement of Collateral shall be borne by the Client.
- 14.3 Should the exercise of a right serving as Collateral, or the enforcement of a claim to such Collateral, arise during the period in which the Collateral is available for the Bank, the Bank will be entitled to exercise that right or to enforce that claim. The Bank is entitled (i) to treat the amounts received during the enforcement of the claim, any amount that arrives at the Bank for the name of the Client, as well as the balances that appear on the Settlement Account and the Client's Current Account as security deposit (financial collateral) securing the Bank's existing and future claims against the Client under any Receivables Purchase Agreement, and to record such amounts separately, and (ii) to set off them against the Client's due payment obligations.
- 14.4 The collateral contract will remain in force and effect until the Bank's claims against the Client under the Receivables Purchase Agreement, are fully settled. After the complete recovery of its claims from the Client, the Bank shall release the Collateral that was made available for it by the Client but remained unused, at the request and cost of the Client.
- 14.5 The Bank is entitled to set off its due claims against its debts towards the Client. This set off right exists even when the Bank's claims and liabilities are not derived from the same transaction. The Bank is entitled to charge the costs of the enforcement of the Collateral to the Client and to set off them against the amounts received by the Client even when the costs should be borne by a third party according to the legal regulations. The Bank is entitled to proceed in accordance with the above even in respect of costs arising in connection with the collection of the Receivables assigned to the Bank by the Client, or in connection with the enforcement of claims or the enforcement of any Collateral newly established during the claim enforcement procedure. The Bank is entitled to set off its due claims against any debts towards the Client from any legal relationship, under any legal title, even if the claims were generated in different currencies and are derived from different Receivables Purchase Agreements that were concluded with the Client. The Bank's set off right does not affect or limit the Bank's set off right as per Sections 12.12-12.5 of the GBC against any other bank accounts of the Client held at the Bank, including the Client's Current Account held at the Bank.

15. GOVERNING LAW, DISPUTE RESOLUTION

- 15.1 The present GTC and the Receivables Purchase Agreement are governed by Hungarian law.
- 15.2 The Bank and the Client shall attempt to settle all disputes arising between themselves amicably. Should this prove to be unsuccessful, for all disputes arising from the Receivables Purchase Agreement or arising in connection with it, Parties submit themselves to the exclusive jurisdiction of the court determined in Section 13 of the GBC in respect of matters falling within its competency.

16. OTHER STIPULATIONS

- 16.1 Written form, formal requirements
 - 16.1.1 The Bank and the Client shall prepare their notifications to each other, their requests, their messages and the Receivables Purchase Agreements in writing, or shall confirm these in writing. The Bank is entitled to have the Client's instructions confirmed in writing at the cost of the Client before their implementation. Any notifications, messages and orders sent to each other by post, electronic documents with qualified electronic signature and contracts in paper form signed by authorised signatories of both Parties qualify as written documents. The Bank is entitled to request incorporation of the Receivables Purchase Agreement in notarial deed.

- 16.1.2 Non-written communications must be simultaneously confirmed in writing, they become effective upon the written confirmation, with the exception of facsimile messages and communications in an electronic form, which shall be confirmed in writing only if explicitly requested. When a Party confirms a non-written communication, the other Party shall immediately indicate any discrepancy between the communication and the written confirmation. The Client's telephone number, fax number, and electronic mail address shall be indicated in the Receivables Purchase Agreement, and all orders, files, and documents received from the indicated fax number, telephone number, and electronic mail address shall be deemed by the Bank as genuine communications originating from the Client.
- 16.1.3 The Bank reserves its right to reject any order received by phone, fax or electronic communication for security reasons at its own discretion, including, but not limited to the start of the receivables purchase activity, or to suspend the performance of the order until receipt of the written confirmation. The Bank has no liability in connection with any such rejection and/or suspension.
- 16.1.4 The Client shall hand over to the Bank originals of the documents to be provided in accordance with the provisions of the GTC and the Receivables Purchase Agreement to certify the existence, enforceability, legality, and substantiation of the Receivables in person or by post. The Client may send such documents to the Bank via telefax or in an electronic form, bearing all the responsibility and risk in this regard. If the documents were sent via telefax or in an electronic form to the Bank, the Bank may deem real the content of these documents, the signatures authentic and the signing right of the signatories legally acceptable. Upon the Bank's request the Client is obligated to handover in original the documents sent via telefax or email, and the Bank may suspend its activities until the examination of the original documents.
- 16.1.5 Other than by examining the content of the documents handed over to it, the Bank does not examine whether the Client's Receivables lawfully exist or not. The Bank does not verify whether the delivery of goods or the provision of the services have actually taken place between the Client and the Buyer; all risks derived from the false or forged nature of any documents will therefore be borne by the Client.
- 16.1.6 The Bank shall not be held liable for the consequences of the fulfilment of a false or forged order where this false or forged nature could not have been recognised even with the careful review that the Bank applies during the normal course of business. Furthermore, the Bank is not liable for any damages that are caused to the Client due to the breakdown of phone lines where the message either does not arrive at all, or it is not comprehensible or is incomplete. The Bank is not liable for any damages caused by incorrect pronunciation or mishearing or unintelligibility due to the quality of the phone line or the fax transmission. The data forwarded through a phone network if a phone or a fax is used, or by phone or through the Internet if the Internet is used and an electronic network is operating, may become known to unauthorised third parties. The Client undertakes the responsibility for these damages and waives any claims in this respect against the Bank.
- 16.1.7 If under the Receivables Purchase Agreement the Client may submit a simple or notarised copy of a document to the Bank which should be delivered in original based on the GTC, upon the Bank's request the Client shall immediately provide the Bank with the original of the document too.
- 16.1.8 With regard to documents issued abroad, unless international treaty stipulates otherwise, or there is a different practice of reciprocity, the signature of the document must be certified or countersigned by the Hungarian representation authority. The certification or countersignature is not necessary if the authorisation has an Apostille and the country indicated as the place of signature is a signatory to the Hague Convention of 1961 on abolishing the requirement of legalisation for foreign public documents.
